SPOT OF JUPITER BANK OF HAWAII

NO SATISFACTORY EXPLANATION OF ITS PRESENCE HAS EVER BEEN GIVEN.

well known, a system of belts that gir-die it in greater or less number, par-ticularly in the equator region, and which are of various breadths and of different hues and intensity of color, the prevailing hue of the dark belts ebbing light salmon of tan, while the darkest streaks are of a decided brown. The monotony of this belted surface is broken by the frequent ap-pearance of spots, dark or bright, which sometimes remain visible with but little change for several months, and occasionally persist for more than an entire year. In 1879 a large spot made its appearince in the planet's southern hemis-ohere, which soon became so remark-ible as to attract the general attention of astronomers and to be the subject of not a little speculation. Of a pale vio-let hus when first seen, it had in the following year assumed a deep brickred color, and was by far the most con-spicuous feature of the planet's sub-face. It was situated just below the dark equatorial belt—or above, as the planet appears in an inverting telescope. In form it was an elongated oval having a length of about equal to one-third of the planet's diameter and a breadth about one-fourth as great. Its netual length was therefore about 30,- nctual length was therefore about 30,900 miles.

For two or three years the great "red spot," as it came to be called, remained with but very little change either In form or color. But in 1884 it had faded considerably, and in the following year it had become a pinkish oval ring, its center bales occurred by a whitest its center being occupied by a whitish spot, and such has ben its general discription ever since. In some years, how-ever, it has been so very faint that several observers have announced its entire disappearance. In succeeding years it has become more noticeable, and this year, the twenty-fourth of its existence, it is an object easily perceived with a small telescope.

The epot is still a ring surrounding a light area. The color of this ring, however, instead of being pinkish, is the same as that of the dark equatorial belt in which the spit is now fairly im-bedded, though its distance from the planet's equator is the same as for-merly. The central area is of a pearl-white color, different from that of the bright central belt, which is yellowishwhite. white.

No satisfactory explanation of this very remarkable object as ever been given. The belts are doubtless caused by clouds which floats in the planet's atmosphere, effectually concealing its surface, which may be hundreds of miles below, and these belts, while they never less their verifier resulting. never lose their striking parellel arrangement, are continually, though slowly, changing in their details. But mortgage or deed of trust of all of the property of the company.

Islowly, changing in their details. But this spot, unchanging in form, has no appearance of being a cloud. It is the general opinion of astronomers now that Jupiter is a molten and red-hot body, in a condition intermediate between an earth and a sun. Is this remarkable spot an enormous piece of sing, floating on the molten planet, or is it a region on the planet that is for some reasons hotter than the rest and dissipates with its heat the clouds above it? Each of these suppositions has been made, as affording a possible explanation of this unique phenomenon. One circumstance which complicates One circumstance which complicates the case is that the spit is not a fixture, but drifts slowly and at a variable rate, its rotation period being a trifle longer than that of the planet itself.—Philadelphia Record.

HAWAIIANS MEET.

Action Wantel Relative To Lands In Watakea.

HILO, Nov. 14 .- About eighty Hawallans met in the new church at Wai-akea on Tuesday night for the purpose of discussing a plan whereby they may secure lands in Waiakea. The Waiakea Mill Company holds under lease about 95,000 acres of land, extending from the sea far up the slopes of Mauna Loa. Several years ago the company made an offer to surrender to the Governan offer to surrender to the Govern-ment that portion of the lease to about 87,000 acres of the mauka land in con-sideration of a fee simple this to the lower land. It is said that the best the Government would do was to exchange only a fee simple title to the mill site and this was not accepted. It is ru-mored now-at least the Hawaiians have the impression—that the mill company is willing to pay for its cane lands on condition that it be given fee simple title, and will surrender all of the makai town lands and that portion known as forest lands. Hawalians who have lived on the makai lands as tenants at will are anxious to obtain them as homesteads and for that reason they met Tuesday night to consider a plan of petitioning the legislature to make such recommendations relative to the transfer as would be acted upon favor-ably by the United States Government. The result of the meeting was the apwith Mr. Kennedy, manager of the mill company, on the subject. At least one member of the committee, while favoring a transfer, insists upon an outright sale of the cane lands and mill site at a price to be agreed upon by apprais-ers.—Hawaii Herald.

Work on the dredging of the Pearl Harbor channel is not in so backward Paid Up Capital........Yen 18,000,000 a state as some publications concerning it would give the impression, says the men connected with it. The weather has been very rough since the work of dredging with the present apparatus was first undertaken. And the rough weather has been a great hindrance. But the experience gained so far has enabled those in charge to overcome the difficulties. In one period of seven hours work 1300 yards of material was dredged so that it is confidently ex-pected that with a very short period of good seather the entire work can be accomplished.
